Douglas told them to, and since he had gone they had relapsed into opposition to the Government.

Mr. Palles (Bep.) made a sound speech, expressing considence that the Government could not be overthrown notwithstanding the efforts of the incarnate fiends rebelling gainst its—saying that he fill tike calling on the President "to save the Union constitutionally if he could, but to save it anythow." He defended the course of the Government in declaring marital law, and the arrest of the auti-draft rioters in Gualce ecousty. He particularly urged his resolution uniogising Gen. Rosserans, and embodying his Ohio letter as designed to show that the people of Lafsystet county, by whose other representative the armistice resolutions had been offered, were not totally depraved, and intended to point out the difference between Democrate at the North, who knew little of the proper policy to be parsued in this war, and a Democrate at the North, who knew little of the proper policy to be parsued in this war, and a Democrate at the form the outset. Mr. Pullen said peace could only be obtained by conquering the rebels to submission, and expressed in strong terms his loathing of those who were ready to cringe and crawl at the feet of traitors, and est dirt in disgraceful untilisation, useing for peace and offering what the rebels did not sak.

Mr. Jewes (Dem.) authoritatively made the announcement, causing some sensation thereby, that the armistice and peace and offering what the team increased per proper of the Mr. Vivian referred to the history of the Mr. Vivian referred to the history of the Mr. Vivian referred to the history of the Mr. Witse referred to the history of the Mr.

The latest Young's Point reports circulated are that Indianola had been distinctly seen by means of a field glass, lying along side the Queen of the West, under the guns at Treaton. Others believe the reports of the man who escaped when abe was captured true; that the Indianola sunk; but the majority seem to think at General Grant's headquarters that the gunboat was not materially injured.

Indianola was placed in a bad position and badly managed by the pilot. The Queen of the West, Webb and Music butted against her. The Webb had heavy guns and used thom with effect. Still the Indianola sustained but little damage from this cause. The raras butted against her but ahe was not hart by them. Wassurseros, March 5, 1863.

Richmond papers, of the 97th uit., contain a dispatch from Lieut. Gen. Pemberton, aunouncing the capture of the Indianola, which says she is sunk on the Mississip side of the river. Her bosts and upper work are out of the water near Joe Davis' plants tion. The following is the first rebel official tion. The following is the first robal official dispatch announcing her capture:

Yeassens, Feb. 25, 1863, and hot engagement, the capture of the Federal iron-clad steamer Indianols, Lieutenant Communicating Brown, U. S. N., together with all the officers and crew, by the Confederate steamers Queen of the West and Webb, forming the expedition that was sent out by me for that pupose, under Major J. Breut. In the Scnate, this morning, an carnest Democrat offered resolutions claiming that Congress had failed to do anything to extricate the country from its perilcus condition, and requesting the President to convene the new Congress at the earliest practicable period. The resolutions about the transportation of Western preducts were postponed. Mr. Bartlett, from the Commistee on Federal Relations, made a clear and able report against the resolution offered a short time since, opposing the passage by Congress of a bill in-salary instead of per diem for memoers of the Legislature, was defeated by two majority. The Benale adjourned till to-morrow, cutting off all politicsi debate.

It is not deemed necessary to furnish an abstract of the testimony in this report, except in a few instances, where it appears desirable for an intelligent understanding of the whole subject.

Here follows an analysis of the charges and the cridence taken thereon in chromological order.]

The Court also feels bound to report the fact that his commanding officer, Gen. Pope, not only omitted to hold him eulphale for this separation, but emphatically commended his whole conduct while under his command, without exception or equalification.

In the course of the investigation, Gen. McDowell manifested a last and proper sensibility, to the dissemination against him of drunkenness as well as as and proper sensibility, to the dissemination against him of drunkenness as well as as and proper sensibility, to the dissemination against him of drunkenness as well as falloyality.

The charge of disloyality was made by another of the rank of Colonel, after being fally wounded in battle. It was made in goneral terms, without defining any specific act. The accuser is dead, and the Court does not releast librity to say more of it than that it is fully destitute of any foundation. In fact, that it is utterly disproved by all the evidence besting on the point, and that the dying officer, who made it, must have been the subject of deplerable misapprahension, like many others, who mave formed opinions from calumnious rumors and presumptions.

The Court denounces the charge of drunkenness against Gen. McDowell as redientous. The fact is, that there is no man in the land more free than he from all taint of such vice. Among temperate men he is proved by the testimony to belong to the most temperate, and even absteninous. The court is entirely sattlefied that no man ever saw a more concemplete performance of their important drities.

It is to be hoped that the public misfortness excluded by such calumnies will infature lead to greater circumspection, and receive for patriotic and meritorious soldiers more considerals t

AT FIDELITY.

A large meeting, without regard to party differences, was held at Fidelity, Jersey county, on the 96th, to consider the state of the country. The meeting was addressed by Capt. Ross, of the 77th Ohio, and Dr. Rutherford of Alton. The meeting was a success in Capt. Ross, of the 77th Ohio, and Dr. Rutherford of Alton. The meeting was a success in every respect. Some excellent resolutions were adopted. Among others the following:

We have no words that can sufficiently expression of secting and contempt for those sneaking traitors in our midst, who, with hypocritical profession of derotion to the Union on their lips, yet, assassin-like, selass every secret opportantly to give that heeding, staggering, fainling country a fital sish. With none of the motives, they have deable the trackersus beaness of Southers traited in the contemps of the second contemps of the first faither rebeats at heart, and indeed, they deserve a rebell down. Let them beware.

We deeply deprecate the want of patriotism, and condemn the proceedings of the present Democratic Legislature of the Stair, inamonance as it did refuse at its lade session to make any adequate appropriation for the comfort of our site and wound-steodiers, and did endeavor to enact laws and adopt resolutions designed to embarrass the Government and aid the rebels.

Osborne, (our former Colonel.) on his return from Illinois immediately took command of our Beigade, the only one, I believe, in the whole Eastern Dupartment filled exclusively with Western regiments. Col. Maner now commands the regiment, with S. S. Linton acting Lieut. Colonel, and J. Woodraff acting Major. We left Suffolk January 5th, and arrived at the Chowan River on the 7th. Nothing of interest occurred during the march, if I accept meeting with a company of North Carolina Union cavalry, who deserve praise. Appreciating the fallacies of the secession doctrine, they, a heafful of heroic men, raised the old stars and stripes in the very heart of rebellom, and wore to accide the life lives archer than give allegiance to textions. There was one feature of the great meeth at the Capitol which was movel as it was I treasting. The Drum Major of the 19th H nois regiment, (I am sorry I cannot reme ber his name,) executed, upon the drum, imitation of the battle of Murfreesbore. I of a pew chemists, in single season. But thus are only a few chemists have given to this important matters passing notice.

Br. C. A. Goessman, in a pamphlet on the lorghum Saccharatum, says that the saccharine matter of the Sorghum is altogether crystal-mbie, as is cane sugar.

The same of the continuents. The landward of the landward of the continuents of the landward of the la exerts at first an injurious effect on the vitial principle and its products. It cannot be desired that these cases show now a tendency to improve; and they will continue to do so the more their nature is understood. Our formers are also all alive to the importance to procure pure sized of superior kinds; he there will be overy prespect of better canes and it like hold of no doubt that the availability of the Sorghum and the Imphee for the manuscure of sugar will be sottled during the ensuing season.

The above stated comparative amount of graps and cane signs has reference to ordinary good land, and a yield of 501 and 573 has of good sugar respectively per arc, adde of the moissies, ought to be relied on. With botter cane a better yield ought to be expected; and the question arises now:

Why have our efforts thus far been crowned with such indifferent success? Warf is the cause of our failury? The answer is simple and close at hand.

I have showe stated that the crystalizing capacity of a succharine juice depends also on the quality and quantity of constituent admixtures. To litistize this, let us take the juice of the sugar best under consideration. This juice contains, if fresh, only cane sugar amount of salts of potash, pectin, albumen, and other matters, and but for these the manufacture of sugar from beets would be connected with no more difficulty than from appression of the rebellion.

A CHILL'S LEMA — Some mouths since, at the time the Richmond papers made mention of the confirmation of Jeff. Davis in the Epiacopal church, and when it was reported that his health was falling, so that he was not probably long for this world, a little girl having heard the matter spoken of in her family, saked her mother whether Jeff. Davis would go to Heaven if he died. The mother replied that she did not know anything about it and declined giving any direct answer. "Well," and the little girl, "there is one thing I know." Belng taked what it was she taid, "I know if Jeff. Davis goes to Heaven, Washington wont speak to him."—

Now the juice of the 56rghum and Important is analogous to that of the Sugar Bee this respect. It contains an smoons of a minous and nifrogenous matter, equal to of the beet. The amount of saline use is not quite as large; but this advantage counterbalanced by the presence of the properties.

others; though they may be equally good for syraps.

A perfect neutralization of the acid in the jude is also of importance.

We need not wonder that the efforts to manufacture sugar from the Boughum had been unsuccessful. The whole proceeding consisted in the boiling down of the judes to syrap thickness, without taking any particular notice of removing the syrap forming substances at the proper time or by the proper means. They were left in the judes and incorporated with the sugar in such a manner that a separation of these, or of the sugar, is not more possible. We may early that Angrican raw Sorghum syraps are apolled for the manufacture of sugar. Mr. Harris, a New York refiner, who attempted to work twesty-five barrels of syrap for this purpose, say;

"We found the syrap to contain a large amount of sugar, say four to five pounds to the gailous but its grain is an each and weak that we extend to obtained only one and three-fourth pounds, from such guilous of syrap, of dry singer. A large post passed book into the syrap, through the wires of the antifugals."

CHICAGO, ILL, We have to store and are receiving the largest stock of Boots and Shoes In the West, and are condition that there can be found in No RAREET a bestier assortion of all styles of desirable goods that we are prepared to show. Bession a great variety of chapter praces, we have large lines of warrants of the store of the 1863 NEW HOUSE, 1863

Now, to the well understanding of these principles, owes the beet sugar manufacture its great encoss. These substances are removed by a refining of juice at the commonwement of the operations when anch is yet most easily accomplished, and then at first a concentration is attempted. Without this previous refining process of the juice a very indifferent yield of sugar and a larger yield of a black, saline, unpaintable molasses would be the result.

Now the juice of the Sérghum and Implement juice of the Sérghum and Implement juice of the Sérghum and Implement juice of the Sérghum and Implements and one of the Sérghum and Implements and serging the H. & R. B. WHITTEMORE & CO., Lake st. and 43 Wabash avenue is not quite as large; but this advantage is comblerbalanced by the presence of the grape sagar. The nitrogenous matter of the Sorghum amounts to should per cent, varying probably somewhat with various canes and soils. It forms a principal part of the green and white semins. Every manufacturer and operator on the small evaporators, know how heat will gradually and solwly separate it partly from the Julee, and how easily it may be incorporated with seum, newer to be fully removed again. Mechanically diffused through the liquid, as an opalescent filmy mas, it is an obstacle to the growth of the crystal; chemically it tends to change the cane into grape sugar. It is most important, that this substance should be separated from the Julee, as soon as it leaves the crusher. Only a proper clarification with the nee, of boneheak will of feet this.

Of the saline matters, the saits of potash and soch are the most obnoxions; they are not quite so easily removed by the refining process and drag through it, producing among and gummy avyups. As they are derived from the soil, a soil too rich is these matters ought to be aveided. This explains why some soils produce so mach more assily sugar shan others; though they may be equally good for sprups.

A perfect neutralisation of the said in the Hats, Caps and Straw Goods, Umbrellas and Parasols grey ashes and no fire. It smoulders and smokes, and we rake it over and get for our pains, not a spark.

The national anthem, whenever it shall be written, will be struck off at white heat-quick as lightning, and as sharp and thrilling. It may contain poetry—it must contain patricular, it must have the soul—the mysterious paycology attracting and controlling the people. Its ringing, martial stansas must photograph the attack, the shock, the thunder, the victory, the deep love of country, the appeal which shall cause to vibrate every string in the heart, even of the duliest hind.

Have we such an anthem? It seems to us we approximate very nearly lo it in the "Sattle Cry of Freedom," the universally known lyric from the pan of George F. Root, esq. While in the method and merit of its competition it may not aspire to an anthem, most certainly as a song of the war it is destined to live and become part and parcel of its record. It was deathed off upon the eve of a war meeting and caught its spirit, when the composer and every other loyal man was all aglow with passivite real. To-day it is sung in the camps at Vicksburg, at Murfreesboro, and among the Palmettos. On that fatal day at Vicksburg, when the lows troops were hurled back from the beliching batteries, blooding and almost declinated, they broke out in strange union with roar and clash—"Yes' we'll rally round the flag, boys!" When the solemn tears related the

to stop the on frushing avalanche by taking it all on his narrow back. In vain he wanted to buy fabulous sums at fabulous figures, looked wise, assumed to be Sir Oracle and warned the dogs from barking when hoppened his lipsground the lion and still backed up against the avalanche. The golden mass was too much for his weak back, and by noon time, the 1.45 had covered him out of sight and given him a golden funders. Others managed to crawl out more or less hurt and went off limping. As leading to the side of the state of the side of the season of the season of the side of the season of the side of the season of the season of the side of th and shook his golden chains, and the gold man acknowledged his presence and followed the spectre where the bottom of the tub went. How some of the curb-stone brokers allipped off into the gutter while "they were dealing to buy $100,000, a mere most decimisted, they broke out in strange unison with roar and clash—"Yes! we'll rally round the flag, boys!" When the solemn starry nights close their curtains around the camps of the gallant Rosecrans, the ringing strains commencing in one tent spread to the next and to the next, from tent to tent, from camp to camp, mile upon mile, until the whole army sounds the grand battle shout. When the great squadron shook its sails to the baceze at Fortress Monroe, and dropped southward for the hot beds of treason, the last sounds that caught the ears of the watchers on shore were the strains of the "Battle Cry of Freedom." In the camp and by the freedo, the soldier who has been sent and the friends who sent him, allks sing the stirring lyric. Bo widely has it become known that to-day orders pour in from Boston, and till further East, for the home song and the camp song. Walle we may congratulate the composer, we may also congratulate ourselves, that Chicago has contributed so fine a lyric to the war literature and music of the country.

"they were dearing to buy $110,000, a mere trifle you know at 1.55 to 1.55." Magnificent offer! Magnificent man of the curb-stone; How men ran round corners with coat talls that you might have piled gold dollars on! How the lucky fellows, who sold the day before, rubbed their hands and their waistbands our for us who have got no fartner in mancial contibology than the goose on the nickle. It was death to the Copperheads who found that loyally was rising while gold was falling. It was a lesson for the people. It tore away the curtain and gave them a look behind the acenes, at the strings and wires pulled in Wall street; and as it kept going down, all, the people said amen.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. THE MONEY MARKET.

THE MONEY MARKET.

THURSDAY SYRKURO, March 5, 1888.

The excitement yesterday amone "Gold" and other specialors, was calmones itself, compared with the wild surjety and tropedation of to-day. In some knots and financial circles on language could do if justice. In fact operators of all kinds were at their wits ends, for price of all articles have been largely based upon the high rates for gold. The opening dispatches, most of them private, made it 60, then 50, then rapidly down it went to 60, then 45, and then any of these rates were reported to catch "gadgeons" we know not; but that some of them were bogus, or sent by parties who wanted their correspondents here to huy low enough to "hedge" against heavy losses, there can scarcely be a doubt. Probably nobody here knows precisely what the liswess "curbetone" rate was in Wall Street. At the second board gold was reported to close at 87%.

Of sourse prices here varied with every hour, and sometimes every free minutes. Indeed nearly every office had its own price. There was no agreement anywhere. To give any definite rates as ruling here is therefore quite impossible. In the norming 60 was offered, and perhaps some sales were made as low as 60. Probably 486,550 as the range, would be about as nearly correct as one could well get it. We presume that some of the brokers patd the upper figure at the close, though 50 was the highest we heard offered.

It is perhaps uncless to speculate as to the
